

“'Comet of a decade' to whiz past Earth in likely first visit in 4.5 billion years”

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. – A newly-discovered bright comet visible to naked eyes – even from the suburbs of larger cities – will whiz past Earth next year.

While naked-eye comets are rare, visible roughly once in two years, C/2023 A3 could be a comet of a decade, according to Peter Veres, an astronomer at the Harvard-Smithsonian Center for Astrophysics.

“Comet C/2023 A3 is no threat to Earth,” said Veres, who is also a research scientist at the Minor Planet Center. “We know the comet’s orbit well. The orbit is becoming better and better with more and more astrometric observations incoming to our center – the MPC.”

“Why stars never collide and galaxies always do”

Science fiction loves space collisions. Across decades of books, movies, TV shows, and video games, we have been treated to a lot of space stuff slamming into other space stuff. Think of all those starship chases through dense asteroid fields – The Empire Strikes Back comes to mind. The heroes must avoid enemy fighters while navigating through giant space rocks that are crashing together.

In reality, though, how likely is it that things collide in the vast blackness of space? To answer that question, we are going to focus on two familiar forms of celestial bodies: stars and galaxies.

“In Three years, 2 Enormous Black Holes will collide, and we’ll be Able to Witness it from Earth”

In three years, the “black hole merger,” a rare astronomical occurrence, will take place. A single black hole will be created when two extremely large black holes meet and merge. Due to the fact that the point of convergence will be visible to telescopes, this enables researchers to more thoroughly examine the characteristics and behavior of black holes. Scientists and anyone who enjoys science are likely to be very interested in this big and fascinating occurrence.

Scientists eagerly await the historic moment, as it would be the first time that gravitational waves emitted by such an event have been recorded on Earth. A recent study says it would be “the first observable supermassive binary black hole coalescence in human history.” The collision would become a major discovery in astronomy.

COSOLARGY INTERNATIONAL
THE SACRED TEACHINGS OF LIGHT

COSOLARGY NEWSLETTER JUNE 2023

Hello Gene,

Welcome to our monthly bulletin with information of interest to friends of Cosolargy International. In this issue, we bring you up to date with current and future events and provide a little background on our founder, the late Gene Savoy Sr, and his explorations into solar cultures, along with some uplifting words of inspiration.

If you are curious about the solar techniques and activities of our Community, contact us by using the Contact Form on the Cosolargy International website. It will be forwarded to the appropriate representative for your area.

In these trying times, if you would like to have a prayer said for you or others, click the Prayer Request button at the end of this newsletter.

The Origins of Cosolargy

Quotes from Gene Savoy, Sr.

"The Child [Jamil] turned and spoke to his Earthly Guardian, calling him by a new name. And The Man [Gene Savoy, Sr.] locked the name away in his heart, keeping it to himself. And the disciple looked into the shining eyes of The Child, awestruck by what he saw; for rays of Light flashed from The Child's eyes, and they glowed a thousand times brighter than the sun. The mortal man was held spellbound, breathless, suspended in a world where space and time merge, and he was conscious only of the immobility of his own body.

"As he stared into The Child's eyes, The Man became aware of an angelic form materializing out of The Child's countenance. To his amazement, he saw the face of the pure-spirited Angel that had appeared to him six years before—the same that had risen him from the dead, now personified in the form of a Child. Light upon Light. He was being made to see that Jamil had both a human and a divine nature. The Child was revealing that it was he who had first called The Man out of the world to serve Christ. And The Man believed in the Angels as taught in the Holy Books and spoken of by Holy Men of former ages."

God Helps Those Who Help Themselves

God Helps Those Who Help Themselves
Psalm 121

A peaceful warrior in flight like the wind

“From the days of the Ancients have been heard the lamentations of the woeful and disheartened, and they ask the winds, 'Where have we failed for the God we pray to remains unresponsive?' They air their goodness and virtue and ask why these have gone unrewarded. ...

"In this, our generation, goodly people have been robbed of their estates by strangers. ... Their possessions have been sold to provide earthly pleasure for those who revel in things of the earth. ...

"In their dire despair, they seek to lay the blame upon a God who does not strike down wrongdoers and seemingly rewards those who are Earthwise. Wherein have they failed? This is the echo in the corridors of the ages.

"They have failed because they have left to God the things which they, as God's overseers on Earth, should have accomplished. It is Men in the mass who permit evil to flourish in their midst. Their woeful lamentations ascend to Heaven and call upon the heavenly hosts for aid, but better by far would it be to call their own resolution and fortitude and fight the good fight, to bring about the rule of right and justice." ~The Kolbrin Bible (Man:20:1-4)

Lamentations of the Woeful

What was true hundreds of years ago when the quote above was written is even more true today. People complain that God does not destroy the evil and evildoers of the world. They complain that they don't get what they want. They complain that others have more material wealth than they do. They complain to God, but never blame themselves. They ask God to find them a job instead of using their own intuition and talents to find one themselves. They ask God for a new car instead of earning the money to buy one themselves. To some degree, it is understandable that some don't want to embrace the ways of the earthly materialists, yet we must exist in this world for the time being, so to some degree, we must function within its rules.

Robbed of Estates and Possessions

Yes, there are those who rob us of estates and possessions. Some do so illegally, others, like tax collectors, do it legally—either way, we get robbed often in this world. On top of that, cherished possessions break, rust, fall apart, or stop functioning. Many try to blame God for that. Others blame the manufacturers for making goods that fall apart. To some degree, those manufacturers are to blame, but we also have to learn to accept that we live in a world of constant change. That means things will fail, rot, rust, etc. We have to be prepared to deal with that in ways other than crying about it. When you buy something new, plan for the fact that it will need repairs, or have to be replaced at some time.

God Does Not Strike Down Evildoers

Many are disappointed that they see no evidence that God strikes down those who do evil things. They don't understand that to destroy any being is evil, and God never does evil. God doesn't destroy the evildoers, he gives them opportunities to redeem themselves. Even the fallen angels will be redeemed, not destroyed. Of course, they will have substantial karmic debts to pay when they turn themselves around, but they will do it. Lucifer has already and Satan will do so as well. Foolish people often depict God's angels carrying swords and killing devils or evil people, but that is not how angels work. They help God convince them to seek redemption, they do not destroy. In a sense, they destroy evil, but not the beings doing evil.

Overseers on Earth

We are overseers on earth in the sense that we are the caretakers, even if unaware of it. But the important point is that God is NOT our servant, we are here to serve Him. It is up to us to straighten out the world's problems as much as possible, but without resorting to violence and war. God and the angels help, but only for those who help themselves. And helping ourselves begins with each of us developing our own spiritual Self.

“ Astronomers caught a black hole slurping up a star like spaghetti”

When a star ventures a little too close to a black hole, the intense tidal forces suck into it like a giant noodle of star stuff in a cosmic (and much more chaotic) reenactment of that iconic scene in “Lady and the Tramp.” The black hole’s extreme gravitational pull shreds the star into thin strands of material—a process delightfully called “spaghettification.” When these noodle-like strips get sucked into the black hole, they release a powerful bright flare of energy.

“ What is bioluminescence?
It’s a living light”

When you hear the word bioluminescence, do you think of glowing ocean waves under a dark sky? Many do. But, bioluminescence includes all life that – through a chemical reaction – emits light. In the image above, a single-celled form of marine plankton, known as bioluminescent dinoflagellates, are the source of the light on the incoming waves. But in addition, there are bioluminescent creatures in the deeper ocean, too. And we here on Earth's dry land sometimes see bioluminescent creatures flying in the air.

“See photos of stunningly preserved 52-foot-long Book of the Dead papyrus from ancient Egypt”

Egyptian officials have released photos of an ancient scroll, the 52-foot-long \(16 meters\) Book of the Dead papyrus recently discovered in Saqqara. The 10 images show ancient illustrations of gods and scenes from the afterlife, as well as text on the document, which is more than 2,000 years old.

Archaeologists discovered the Book of the Dead papyrus within a coffin in a tomb near the Step Pyramid of Djoser and announced the discovery on Jan. 14 for Egyptian Archaeologists Day, but this is the first time they've released images of the scroll to the public.
