COSOLARGY NEWSLETTER November 2020

Greetings!

Welcome to our monthly bulletin with information of interest to friends of Cosolargy International. In this issue we bring you up to date with current and future events and provide a little background on our founder, the late Gene Savoy Sr, and his explorations into solar cultures, along with some uplifting words of inspiration.

If you are curious about the solar techniques and activities of our Community, contact us by using the Contact Form on the Cosolargy International website. It will be forwarded to the appropriate representative for your area.

In these trying times, if you would like to have a prayer said for you or others, click the Prayer Request button at the end of this newsletter.

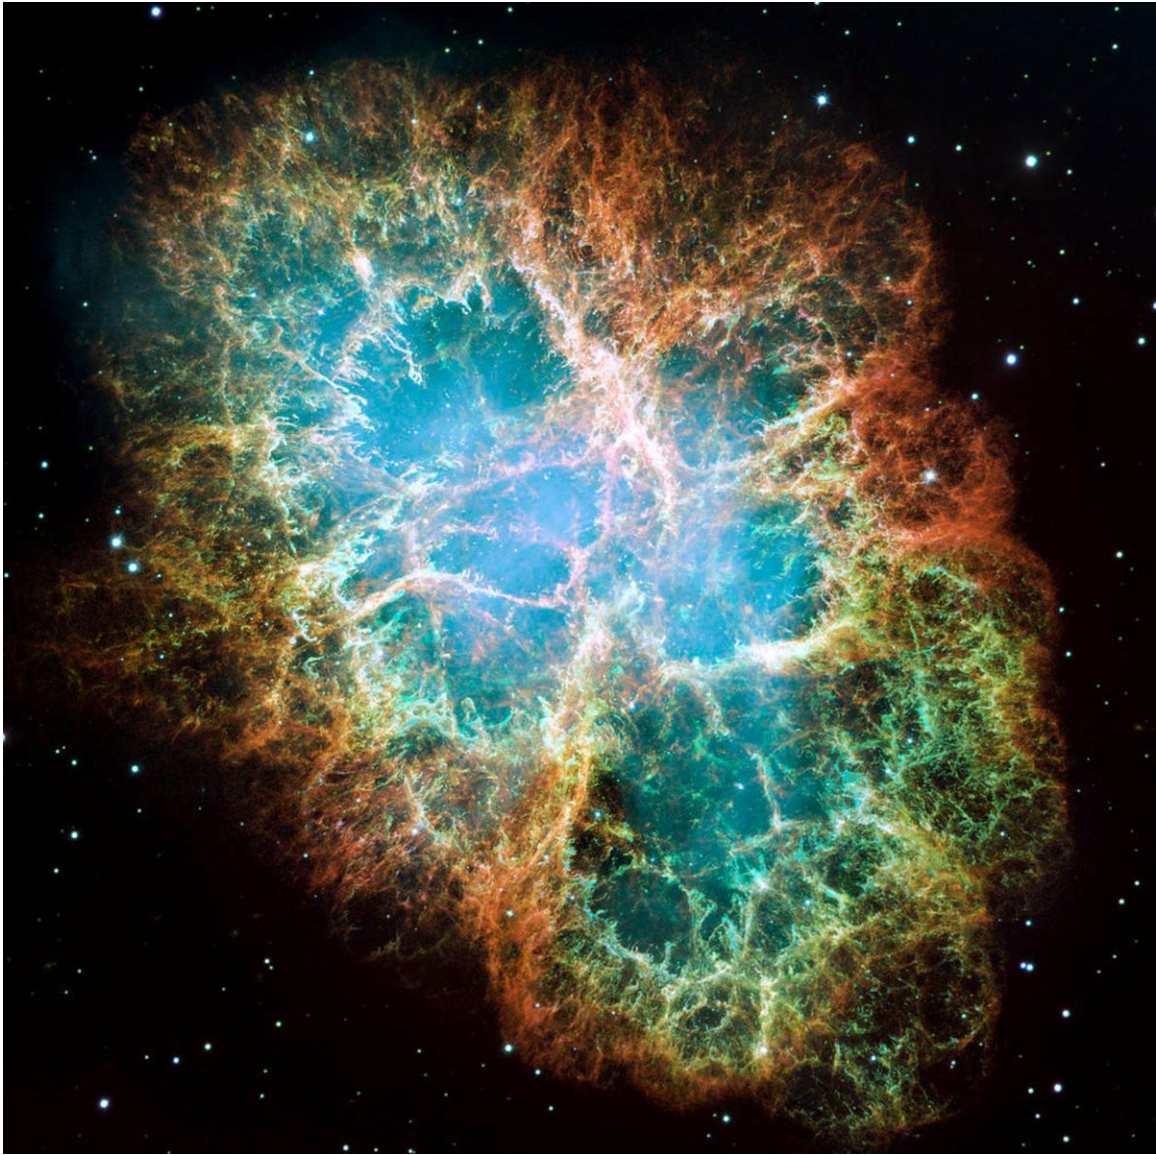

The Origins of Cosolargy

From 1957 until 1971 Gene Savoy, in company with members of the school, conducted a grand exploration program of the Andes and the Amazonian jungles in Peru, Ecuador, Colombia, and Brazil. It was during this time that many ancient cities and temple sites were recovered from the mantle of growth that had covered them for centuries. These exploits were recorded in Antisuyo—The Search for the Lost Cities of the Amazon (New York: Simon & Schuster, 1970); Vilcabamba—The Lost Cities of the Incas (London: Robert Hale, 1970); On the Trail of the Feathered Serpent (New York: Bobbs-Merrill, 1974), all authored by Gene Savoy. CBS News recorded his explorations in a one-hour documentary, and the major magazines and newspapers of the world reported the remarkable findings. Other manuscripts covering this period are presently in press, having been withheld from publication. The published stories were restricted to the archeological, anthropological, and historical significance of the expeditions. No mention was ever made of the Community's inner work, because the reporters were never informed of it.

Origin of the Universe: The 20th-Century Creation Myth

A TOUCHSTONE REVIEW

Marcelo Gleiser, A Tear at the Edge of Creation: A Radical New Vision of Life in an Imperfect Universe, 2010

Neil DeGrasse Tyson, Origins: Fourteen Billion Years of Cosmic Evolution, 2004

. . . says Satan to Adam: "O Adam, by reason of your fall you are under my rule, because you hearkened to me and transgressed against God. There will be no deliverance from my hands until the day promised you by God. Inasmuch as we do not know the day agreed upon with you by your God, nor the hour in which you will be delivered, for that reason will we multiply war and murder upon you and your seed after you. This is our will and our good pleasure, that we may not leave one of the sons of men to inherit our orders in heaven. . . . and we will not cease our evil doing, no, not one day nor one hour."

Creation myths convey profound truths to the human culture that repeats them and believes in them. For the ancient Egyptians, the actions of deities provided explanations for terrestrial phenomena, like the laughter of the earth god Geb creating earthquakes; or they illustrated the process by which a single divine being that is the underlying substance of the world evolves into a multiplicity of elements, like the body and soul of the creator god Atum becoming all things.

The Baja California Sur Expedition - Conservation

Conservation Goals

(This concludes a series of articles that appeared in the July, September & October issues).

The challenge facing this part of Baja California is balancing mass tourism and resource depletion with development, based on a respect for both nature and people to ensure a sustainable future.

President of Cosolargy International, Gene Savoy, Jr., had this to say; “The very first time I visited the East Cape, I knew it was a remarkable place. The Sun was vibrant and nature was bursting with energy. The Sea of Cortez reminded me of the Mediterranean, except calmer. Every time I visit, I feel a sense of renewal and I am invigorated. I know there is something special there. Our vision for our wellness retreat and center in Baja is based on three primary elements: the Sun, the sea, and Cosolargy. If we remember that Cosolargy is truly the quintessential environmental science, then what this group of people and organizations are trying to accomplish is in alignment with what we represent, teach and want to exemplify -- harmony with nature.”

A good example of progress made on the ecological front is Cabo Pulmo, a national marine park 37 miles southwest of Los Barriles. The bay, Bahia Pulmo, is home to a 20,000-year-old coral reef, the oldest in North America and one of only three ancient reefs on the North American West Coast. Before 1995, when the area was declared a national park, the area was severely overfished. Twenty-five years later, the area has seen a 400% increase in biomass -- attributed to the healthy condition of the reef itself which has literally come back to life.

What Does Cosolargy Teach?

The Spiritual Nature and the Light Body

Whether he knows and desires it, Man is an active participant in microscopic and macrocosmic space, involved in a two-way energy exchange system in the universe. A higher force beyond physical reality exists, and Man must be in harmony with this force, through nonmaterial faculties, to experience and understand his own spiritual nature and immortality.

Since the universal forces that create the duality or play of opposites affecting and controlling Man's existence originate as impersonal, nonphysical forces, the conscious use of these forces introduces a new level of being in the individual by the creation of a force field or Light Body (not to be confused with the aura photographed by Kirlian photography). A total human being consists of three bodies: physical, psychic, and spiritual. Although it is possible to have brief spontaneous experiences of a spiritual nature, in order to be of any lasting and effective value to the individual, as well as to the world and the universe, spiritual development must follow certain natural and universal laws of growth.

The activation of the spiritual potential and development of a Light Body introduces one to a new level of energy, and thus to the impersonal intelligence or information factors of both the positive (logos, or Christ Force) and negative (kalos, or anti-Christ Force) natures to a far greater degree than is otherwise possible. The personalization of these forces by Man involves physical and psychological as well as spiritual changes and therefore the conscious use of such forces cannot be done in a haphazard manner, because the power involved is much greater than any individual can handle. For this reason, techniques cannot be applied indiscriminately without correct information and guidance. This was understood by all previous teachers of philosophies and religions involving the conscious use of universal forces and explains the need for secrecy and for individuals to work in closed communities (e.g., the Essenes in the vicinity of the Dead Sea).
