Project X: The Search for the Secrets of Immortality -- The Explorations

Gene Savoy always set his sights high - beyond mere discovery of ruins which pale before the discovery of the greatness of the civilization that made them. To Savoy the past can only serve the future. Therefore, his explorations were the stepping stones to discoveries of the intangible, non-physical or spiritual legacy of the ancients, and were not necessarily meant for public acclaim. A man ahead of his time, Savoy determined early in his career that there is a real need to protect truth from the skepticism and cynicism of the world. And so, he quietly hid his "real research." [...]

It has often been said that Gene Savoy has done for metaphysics what Albert Einstein has done for physics. His primary interest has been and continues to be in religion; not the orthodox religions of the first dispensation of Christianity, but of a universal religion that embraces all the aspects of man, his place in and relationship to the whole of Creation - a religion of participation in universal laws rather than one of mere faith and belief. [...]

In addition, Savoy has produced a steady stream of unparalleled, transcendent literature since 1957. These publications include 59 books on theology and religion, and 276 recorded lectures. His internationally acclaimed Decoded New Testament and The Essaei Document; Secrets of an Eternal Race are major contributions to an understanding of the Essenes and the Dead Sea Literature. His is the first work that has brought to light the real teachings of the Essene sect, that sect of which Jesus supposedly was a rabbi. The majority of his religious works deal with revelations and amendments to the Christian religion as presently known, prophecies, wisdom teachings, and theory and techniques meant only for the practitioner of Cosolargy, a system of religious disciplines originated by Savoy.
