

“Strange gravitational waves may reveal dark matter near merging black holes”

The evidence for dark matter is everywhere and the evidence for dark matter is nothing. Galaxies rotate in ways that make no sense unless something invisible is adding mass. Light bends around galaxy clusters more sharply than visible matter alone could explain. Cosmological structure across the entire observable universe fits a pattern that requires most of its matter to be something that does not emit, absorb, or reflect light.

Click here to read the article