The Origins of Cosolargy

Vilcabamba

Throughout the latter half of the 20th century, Gene Savoy made a series of expeditions to Peru, discovering various Inca and pre-Inca archaeological sites. In 1964 he discovered Vilcabamba, the secret mountain stronghold where the Incas hid from Spanish conquerors in the 16th century. His discovery disproved Bingham's notion that Vilcabamba and Machu Picchu were the same place. (From: Encyclopaedia Britannica).

In 1911, Hiram Bingham, a Yale University professor of history, went to Peru looking for the refuge city of the last Inca, Manco II, who had revolted against the Spaniards following the conquest of Peru under the leadership of Francisco Pizarro. Bingham claimed the lost city to be Machu-Picchu (now a world-famous tourist attraction.) However, Gene Savoy's research indicated that this was not the lost, last city of the Incas. Historical texts and reports by the Spanish soldiers, who eventually tracked down and captured the last of the Incas in refuge, pointed out that the city used by the Incas as a last refuge was located in a region called Vilcabamba, in the far reaches of Antisuyo - the name for that portion of the jungle.

Machu Picchu was neither large enough to be the capital city of the Neo-Inca empire in hiding, nor was it located in the jungle. Savoy's team of explorers would penetrate further into the jungle. After some 90 days of search, they succeeded in locating the real lost city, Vilcabamba - a city complex comprised of about 400 buildings situated over an area of one square mile.

Welcome Sunrise for a Better Physical and Spiritual Life

"In spring and in summer from 22nd March each year it is recommendable for man to go early to bed and to rise early to welcome the sunrise and accept his part from it—like the bees gather the nectar from the flowers. ...

"As we expose ourselves to the Sun, so must we live in the divine love.

"Food, water, air and light are healing factors. The solar rays, absorbed with love, are most beneficial to the body. They act soothingly upon the soul and refreshingly upon the spirit.

"It is better to go barefoot and perceive the energy of the earth. This would heal you.

"Keep always your head erect. Why? Because that way you allow for the energies coming from the Sun to pass freely through your lungs." ~Biensa Douno

Welcome Sunrise

In a sense, we always welcome sunrise. Most of us, anyway. But Douno is talking about something more than just being grateful that the sun has risen again. Even just casually observing a sunrise isn't enough. We need to welcome the sun, to greet it and thank it for appearing again. We need to thank it for sending us healing light. We need to recognize it as a conscious being, not simply an object.

Then beyond the physical sun, there is the spiritual sun. Just as the physical sun is important for the health of the body, so is the spiritual sun important for the health of the spirit and soul.

The Birth of Jamil, March 1959

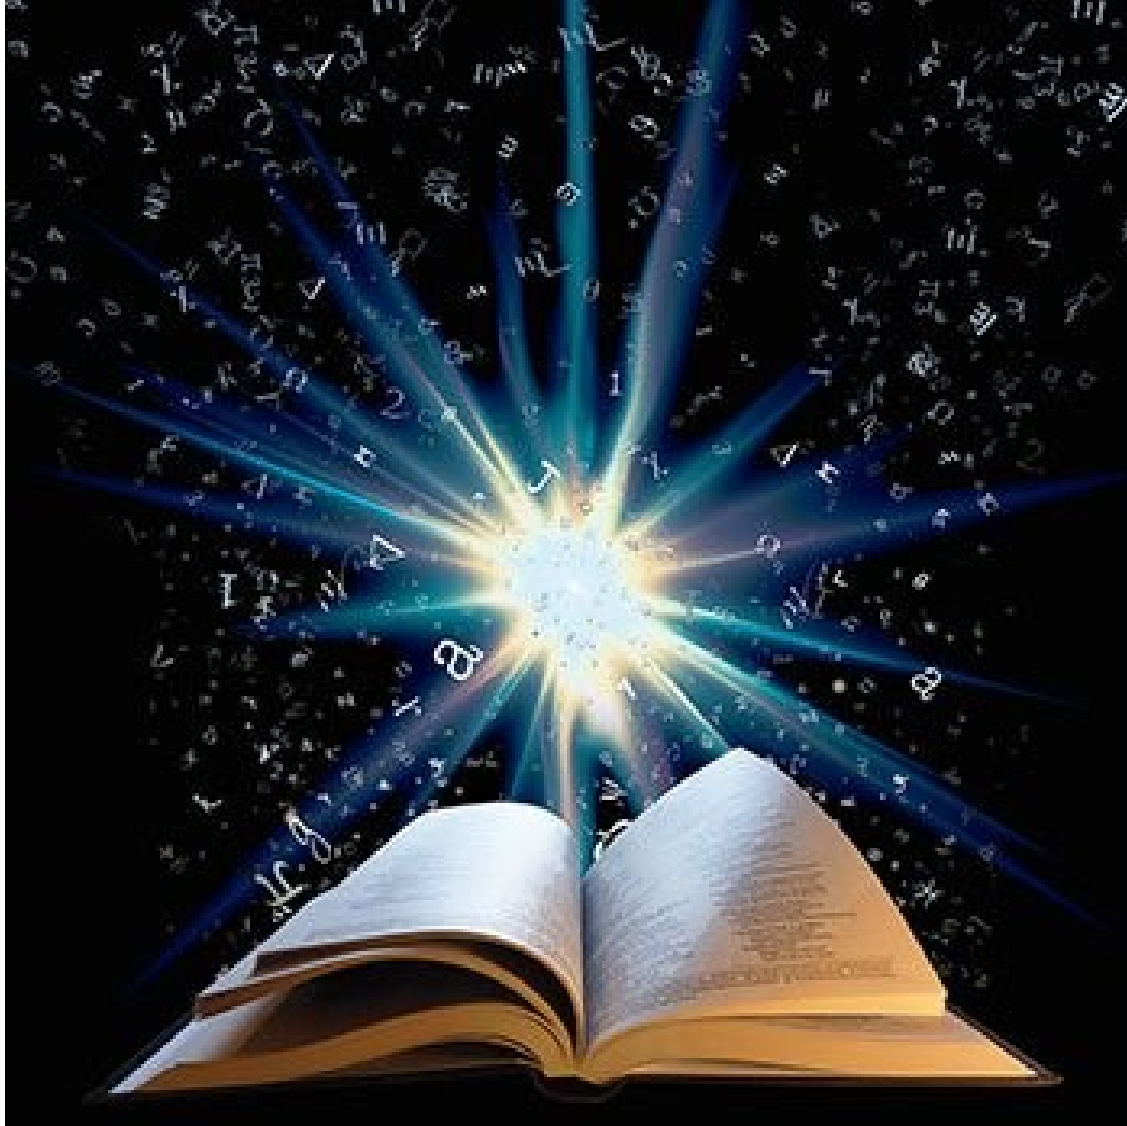

“An illuminated one, self-generated, and pre-existent, is destined to come into the world as the revealer of a new teaching to fulfill the old. God shall send him clothed as an innocent child, and from him will come a pure Teaching. And all the Prophets of all times will honor and acknowledge him as the Light of the world, for he shall be a king from The Sun.”

“His sign will be the Cross of Enlightenment and the New Sun of Righteousness that will appear in great glory to alleviate the sufferings of mankind. He shall be accompanied by a multitude of Great Ones. The Child will usher in a New Age for mankind.”

And on the morning of March 16, 1959, under the sign of the fish, The Woman was with pain. At daybreak, eight months following conception, The Child came forth like the rising of the sun, strong and perfect, and many came to gaze upon The Child's beauty.

What Does Cosolargy Teach?

Though the magnitude and magnificence of Man's spiritual heritage have been preserved in the scriptures of the world's great religions, much of the essence has been lost. Perhaps this loss has been largely responsible for modern humanity's withdrawal from a religious philosophy of life. Though science has been much blamed for the decline of religion, the built-in problems of dogmatism and authoritarianism in the churches have resulted in unrealistic and ineffective palliative systems relying largely on blind faith and empty ritual. The Christian religion seems to have fallen into decline because it evolved out of an incomplete record of the revealed and divine System taught by Jesus. Scholars have known for some time that the secret, oral Gospel of Jesus was lost soon after his crucifixion and the death of the first apostles.

Alfred Loisy, late Professor of Sacred Scripture at the Institut Catholique in Paris (excommunicated from the Roman Catholic Church in 1908 for his writings) realized from his studies that Christianity was no longer, as he had once believed it to be, a live possibility for thinking men and women, but he accepted the fact that out of his Christian faith would grow something stronger. He did not believe that Christianity was over, and done with, that it belonged to the dead past, and that people should look elsewhere. He believed that Christianity was true and sound, but that its deeper meaning could only be found in the hidden meaning of scripture. He believed that there was a deeper meaning to scripture which could be unlocked by some key not known to scholars.
