The Origins of Cosolargy

Quotes from Gene Savoy, Sr.

The voice of the Angel+ spoke from within his being saying: 'The New Advent+ is approaching. One will come into the world to teach the spirits of men and to inaugurate a Christ Age.+ From earliest times it has been written that God+ shall send a Holy One+ at a time when the sovereignty of the world will have passed over to Christ+ and the consummation of time will have occurred. A Religion of Light,+ animated and inspired by the powers that brought man into being, shall manifest through the Sun of Righteousness+ and will give birth to luminous creatures longing for unity with God.+

'The Eternal Child of Light, + seeking to restore the world, will put on terrestrial garments and appear as other men; he shall give sight to the spiritually blind. And in this day of days, the treasure of Manna+ will descend from on high, and the days of the Visitation+ will have begun. That which was dead shall live again. The Seals+ shall be opened.' Having said these things, the Angel fell silent.

LOOKING FORWARD

Looking Forward Gives Us Power and Hope

“Power comes of looking forward with hope of expecting and demanding the better things to come. That is the law of the Infinite Mind, and when we follow it we live in that mind. Nature buries her dead as quickly as possible and gets them out of sight. It is better, however, to say that Nature changes what it has no further use for into other terms of life. The live tree produces the new leaf with each return of spring. It will have nothing to do with its dead ones. It treasures up no withered rose leaves to bring back sad remembrance. When the tree itself ceases to produce leaf and blossom, it is changed into another form and enters into other forms of vegetation. I do not mean to imply that we should try to banish all past remembrance. Banish only the sad part. Live as much as you please in whatever of your past that has given you healthy enjoyment.” ~Prentiss Mulford

Looking Forward

Whether we are developing our spiritual side or not, we all need to look forward. We should remember the lessons of the past, but not get trapped in it. When we get trapped in the past, there is little chance that we will ever move forward. Sometimes it happen when other drag us forward, kicking and screaming. It is far better, though, if we move forward of our own volition.

Astronomical alignments were built into the design and orientation of Stonehenge -- the imposing monument that dominates a flat plain in southwest England.

The central axis of the megaliths was -- and still is -- aligned with the sunrise at midsummer and sunset at midwinter, the stones perfectly framing the rising and setting sun when days were at their longest and shortest.

But it has long been thought the monument was used for ceremonial purposes rather than an accurate way to track the days, months and seasons.

However, a new study by Timothy Darvill, a professor of archaeology at Bournemouth University in the United Kingdom, has concluded that Stonehenge served as a solar calendar and identified how it may have worked.

Stonehenge is made of two types of stone: larger sarsen stones and smaller bluestone monoliths from Wales. The latter were thought to have been the first to be erected at Stonehenge 5,000 years ago, centuries before the larger sarsen stones, which came from a site much closer to the monument.
